National Science Week

Dear Parents/Carers,

We are thrilled to announce an exciting event coming up at our school—the National Science Week! This week-long celebration of science, discovery, and exploration will take place from 11th to 15th March, and we have a plethora of engaging activities planned for our students.

As part of the festivities, we will be conducting a variety of practical experiments across all classes. Our students will have the opportunity to dive deep into the world of science through hands-on learning experiences.

One highlight of the week will be our whole school 'Great Egg Drop' —a fun and creative challenge that will encourage problem-solving and teamwork among our students.

We would like to extend a special invitation to all parents to join us in celebrating National Science Week by visiting their child's classroom. This will be a fantastic opportunity for you to witness firsthand the exciting experiments your child will have been working on.

Please mark your calendars for Thursday 14th March, at 2:45pm, and join us in your child's classroom. If you have multiple children attending our school, rest assured that we will repeat experiments so you can see each of your children showcase their work.

We look forward to welcoming you and sharing the wonders of science with you during this special week. Thank you for your continued support in fostering a love for learning in our students.

Warm regards,

Mr Griffiths and Miss Spoard
